The screenshot shows the 'Log In' page of the da vinci system. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'Log In', 'MAIN MENU', and 'CONTACT US'. Below this, a message 'Welcome Guest!' is displayed. The main content area is titled 'Log In' and contains two input fields: 'Username:' with the value 'mcole' and 'Password:' with several dots. A 'SUBMIT' button is located to the right of the password field. A large yellow circle highlights the entire 'username' and 'password' input area. A yellow arrow points from the bottom of this highlighted area up towards the 'Log In' link in the top navigation bar.

Nice to have it automatically filled in so that I don't have to worry about remembering my password. Also, there should only be one set of Navigation, not one on top and one on the bottom.

Once you login it should know that you are a student. And if you are a student who works fro the school it should be phrased differ-ently like "work study"

The notes can be helpful but the
should be styled in a different way
so that we know they are subject to change.

These are the most used (next to registration), they should also just condense them and get rid of one of the "Program Evaluation"s.

Overall layout needs to be changed. The important/most used sections should be prominent and noticeable. Depending on how it is changed, it should be moved to the top or first in the line up.

The way the information is laid out is very uncomfortable for the eyes. Also, the Hierarchy is not very noticeable. I think it needs to be re-worked entirely.
